Exercising, polishing the skills for competitive sports, and taking root in Taiwan

Exercising and living a happy life are both important and when it comes to enhancing physical health, developing a regular and good habit of exercise is always the crux. The nation's development can be infused with exuberant vigor only when its citizens are equipped with a sound mind and robust physique; this will also elevate our strength in competitive sports on an international level. With the auxiliary help of campaigns aimed at advocating the sports industry we will be able to forge a prospective economic and take root in Taiwan.

The Administration has been the main driving force for the development of the overall development of sports policy and in the same time ameliorates guidelines for policies by means of legislation and law amendment. In 2017 the Legislative Yuan successively passed the amendment of the "National Sports Act" and "Sports Industry Development Act," which was promulgated by the President and implemented accordingly. The amendment has stipulated some relevant measures and supplementary mechanisms that will realize sports reforms and positively lead specific sports groups to develop financial transparency, organizational openness, industrial competitiveness, and objective performance evaluation. The amendment can also elevate the competitiveness of national sports groups and spur the vigorous development of our sports industry.

To implement the President's sports policies, the Administration has accomplished the white book for sports policy with rolling amendment in 2017. With the support and synergy from all sectors, the Administrator is striving to promote and implement all policies and plans, with the core value being the sculpting of "quality sports culture" and "exceptional sports performance." The Administrator will then develop the "vigorous sports industry" whose developmental focuses will be "Sports at School: Invigorate Sports in Campus to Boost Students' Energy," "Sports for All Citizens: Doing Exercise to Lead a Happy Life," "Competitive Sports: Use Exceptional Skills to Reach for the Apex," "International and Cross-strait Sports: Take Root in Taiwan and Stride to the World Stage," "The Sports Industry: The Driving Force for a Happy Economy," and "Sports Facilities: Building a Friendly and Premium Environment for Sports."

The 29th Summer Universiade in Taipei ended successfully. Our athletes performed superbly, winning a total number of 90 medals (26 gold, 34 silver, and 30 bronze). We ranked number three among 134 participating countries. This is our best result in regard to national ranking and number of medals. People had also shown their support by swamping the revenue, which translated to a home field miracle. The sports extravaganza, whether in terms of the results or the box-office for sports competitions, was something never seen before in Taiwan. We would like to take advantage of the after-effect and craze to help citizens making sports a part of their lives. Practicing sports can facilitate physical health, enrich life, build up coherence, and manifest our power. In light of that, promoting sports for all citizens has already become a world trend, and the Administration has decided to join the mainstream to integrate governmental and private resources and join forces with different sectors to promote the developmental strategies for different sports. By building a delightful sports experience, the Administration hopes to cultivate healthy and exceptional talents to realize the vision of exercising, polishing the skills for competitive sports, and taking root in Taiwan.
